

DEMO DELGADO

Reggae/dancehall artist from Kingston, Jamaica

Short Bio

An inspiring, charismatic reggae singer/songwriter from Kingston, Jamaica, Demo Delgado enjoyed an early career collaborating with star artists such as Sanchez and Wayne Wonder, writing and recording singles for Penthouse Records and touring the globe. He has matured into a solo artist with a powerful conscious message and recently opened for Tarrus Riley in L.A.

Long Bio

Demo Delgado is an inspiring, charismatic reggae singer/songwriter who started recording at the age of 15 and had two Jamaican radio hits by the time he reached 18. He enjoyed a successful early career writing and recording singles for Penthouse Records, collaborating with reggae/dancehall artists such as Sanchez, and performing around the world, especially with Wayne Wonder.

Delgado collaborated on No Holding Back, the Atlantic Records album that launched Wayne Wonder as an international superstar, co-writing the songs "Enemies" and "Metal & Steel." "Enemies" was a smash hit later remixed for VP Records' compilation album, Strictly the Best Vol. 31. Their single "Baby I Need You" was featured in the movie SOMETHING NEW.

The single "Live and Learn" marked Delgado's re-emergence as a powerful solo artist with his Rastafarian roots becoming more prominent in his musical message. The award-winning "Live and Learn" music video plays on video stations in South Africa, the Caribbean, the East Coast of the United States, and Canada. In July 2016, Delgado's opening set for the Tarrus Riley show in Los Angeles was met with an enthusiastic audience. He's looking forward to more live performances and recording new singles.

Artist Quote

"Apart from Bob Marley, Buju Banton is one of Jamaica's brightest stars. As a youth growing up in a Kingston, Jamaica garrison, I always looked up to them as role models: I saw a pathway to better myself by trying to follow in their footsteps." – Demo Delgado
